Arrival of the "California."

Thirteen Days' Later News.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT INTELLIGENCE.

The U. S. Mail Steamship California arrived at Esquimalt harbor yesterday morning. She brought thirteen days' later news from California, from which we select a comprehensive synopsis given below:

MEMORANDA.
The steamship California, R. L. Whiting, Commander, left San Francisco Jan 4, at noon. During the night of the 4th experienced a severe gale from the S. E. Arrived off Columbia river bar at 3 a. m. Jan. 7th; crossed the bar at 7 1/2 a. m., and arrived at Portland at 7 1/2 p. m. Took in freight &c. and left Portland at 6 p. m. Jan. 8th, crossed Columbia river bar Jan. 9th at 10 1/2 a. m., and arrived at Esquimalt at 9 a. m. Jan. 10.

PASSENGERS.
Capt. Casbardine, Capt. Venables, Mr. Collins wife and child, Mr. Mathew, J. W. Foster, Mr. Prag, Mr. Multhrop and brother, Mr. Devine, F. Stinson, F. Roman, Mr. Levy, A. J. Langley, J. Stangle, Miss M. Foster, Miss Orchard, Mrs. O'Brien, Mr. Ritchie and wife, C. Dean, John J. A. Sampson, S. P. Moody, J. Grant, A. H. Car-gill, Mr. Wolf, Mr. Foster, and child, and 10 others in the steerage.

California.

On Jan. 1st, at Sacramento, Dr. J. K. Boyce while walking with a friend, was shot by a man named Cassidy. The assassin was firing at the Drs. friends who had seduced his wife. The Drs. wound it is feared will prove fatal.

On the same day, Horace Smith a lawyer of Auburn, Amador county, on a visit to San Francisco, met with Mr. J. E. Newell, also of Auburn, and formerly publisher of a campaign paper at that place. As soon as Smith caught sight of Newell, he rushed upon him with a bowie-knife in his hand. The latter ran into 'Ashburn store on Sacramento street, opposite the What Cheer House, and tripped on a box and fell. His assailant then leaped upon him, and saying, "you'll slander my wife again, will you?" stabbed him twice, the wounds causing his death in a few moments. Smith is in custody.

On the night of the same day, a German named Joe, while drunk, was run over and killed by one of the Mission Railroad cars.

Two men, named Marran and Hannberg, were arrested in San Francisco, charged with having murdered the Johnston family two months ago, near Lone Mountain Cemetery. Hannberg was discharged by the police magistrate, and the charge against Marran is not proven.

On the 31st inst., two men, named Blackburn and Tracy, fought a prize fight near Nevada, which resulted in favor of Tracy, after fighting thirty-one rounds in forty-five minutes. Blackburn was terribly punished.

A man named Kon was shot down in cold blood by another named Cooper, at San Jose on the 28th ult.

Ex Gov. Weller, having been appointed U. S. Minister to Mexico, left San Francisco on the 31st for the scene of his labors.

On the same day, Gilbert A. Grant, a leading Republican State Senator, died of bilious fever. He was aged 47 years, and was much beloved by his friends.

On the morning of Dec. 27, the steam-tug Diana, while towing a steamer in San Francisco harbor. The boiler was blown from the boat into the bay. The engineer and firemen were killed.

A great storm has been seriously felt at Carson Valley and in the vicinity of Placerville; the roads are all blocked up, and mining is at an end.

The States.

The Southern States had met in Charleston, and passed a resolution for the appointment of three commissioners to proceed to Washington and lay the ordinance before the President, requesting him to communicate the same to Congress, and treat with the Government for the delivery of the forts, etc., up to the last day of February, provided the forts, in the meantime, be allowed to remain as at present; also, to treat upon and settle the questions of the public debt and division of property. Dec. 20th, Ingalls reported an ordinance of secession, which declares and ordains the repeal of the ordinance of May 23d, 1778, whereby the Constitution of the United States was ratified, and all acts of Assembly ratifying the amendments to that Constitution, which passed unanimously at quarter past one, 159 members voting. The news produced intense excitement among the members of Congress, and for a long time confused its proceedings.

In the Senate, strong debates have taken place. Resolutions providing for amendments to the Constitution, having for their object the allaying of the excitement in the south, were passed. Johnson, from Tennessee, denounced the secessionists. The House of Representatives has passed the Pacific Railroad Bill.

Major Anderson, of Fort Moultrie, made a requisition for men and ammunition to guard the Port from the secessionists. The request was denied by the cabinet, and Gen. Cass, Secretary of State, at once resigned.

On Saturday evening, 15th December, the Albany Journal came out in favor of a compromise. It says: "We are almost prepared to say that the Territories may be safely left to take care of themselves." If this suggestion is inadmissible, it proposes a division of territory, as in 1820. Senator Seward had been three days in Albany, and it is thought that the article represents Mr. Lincoln's views.

On the anniversary of Washington's Birthday, on the 14th December, [?] delegations of Free Masons from different States assembled at Washington, and pledged their influence to promote honorable and fraternal feeling throughout the country.

In the Senate of Georgia, on the 17th ult., an exciting debate took place on the bill appropriating $30,000 to arm the State. A resolution declaring the right of secession was referred.

The Nebraska Legislature on the 10th ult., passed a bill prohibiting slavery in the Territory. There was but two dissenting votes.

Wightman, Democrat and Unionist, has been elected Mayor of Boston by 2,087 majority. A large majority of Unionists were elected to the City Council.

In addition to the resignation of Gen. Cass, Secretaries Floyd and Cobb have also resigned. The President is in great trouble.

Gen. Scott has been sent for at Washington to devise means for the pacification of the distracted republic.

On the night of the 15th of December, Burrows & Dickey's tavern, at Buffalo, was destroyed by fire. Young Dickey and a servant girl were both consumed. Miss Dickey was seriously injured, in jumping from a window. Several others were less injured.

J. W. Bissell, charged with burning Rock Island Bridge, was found "not guilty," on the ground that the bridge was erroneously described in the indictment. He had been re-arrested.

A fire at Orange, N. Y., on the night of the 14th, broke out at the corner of Main and Centre street, destroyed Waverly Hall, the Light Ship's Store, the New Methodist church, and the Second Baptist's property.

An appeal has been taken to the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench, C. W., ordering the delivering up of the fugitive slave charged with murder. Much excitement exists.

The general news is unimportant, and the whole aspect of affairs is very gloomy.

Europe.

European dates are to the 2d of Dec.

To illness of the King of Naples is confirmed. The Piedmontese Parliament was convoked, but immediately dissolved, to give place to the Italian Parliament.

Reported negotiations on the purchase of Venetia are reasserted.

Reactionary movements are at work in the Kingdom of Naples. Five provinces are said to be in a state of siege, in consequence of the movement of the anti-annexationists.

The province of Aleszzy is partly now in a state of insurrection.

The Piedmontese have occupied Terra Cira, against the protest of Cardinal Antonelli. The French are about to occupy it.

Count de Morny is going to Rome with an autograph letter from the Emperor.

The clergy in the Italian provinces are paying homage to Victor Emmanuel.

France is said to have asked explanations from Piedmont, as to whether, with its sanction, Garibaldi has signified his intention to attack Venetia next spring.

LATER.
The garrison at Gaeta made a sortie, but were repulsed with great loss. Five batteries then opened fire upon the town.

A deputation, including two members of Parliament, were appointed to invite Garibaldi to England.

Victor Emmanuel continued at Palermo where he was received with great enthusiasm.

More unimportant reactionary demonstrations have been put down in Naples.

It is reported that Napoleon has intimated to Francis II, the hopelessness of further resistance. There are vague rumors that Cardinal Antonelli had resigned.

The official Austrian journal contradicts the rumor of negotiations for cession of Venetia.

Napoleon has granted permission to the Baltimore battalion to visit Paris fully accoutred, next spring.

The money crisis in the United States caused immediate shipments of gold from England to America. The "Europa" had a considerable amount on board. Large shipments are expected by the "Adriatic," to leave England on the 5th Dec.

The Empress Eugenie will visit Queen Victoria.

Breadstuffs in England were dull and lower.

Australia and New Zealand.
From the San Francisco Bulletin we have intelligence from Australia and New Zealand.

The revenue of the colony of Victoria for the quarter ending September 30th, was £786,689 9s 11d, against £749,783 10s, for same quarter last year. The decrease on the year ending same date was £221,851 12s 9d. The Melbourne Herald says that it cannot congratulate the Government on the present aspect of affairs, and sees no chance of a change as long as their absurd policy in regard to immigration is continued.

In Sydney, N. S. W., the Assembly had passed a resolution for the abolition of the export duty on gold.

From New Zealand we learn that a skirmish took place, Sept. 10th, between some British troops and a party of natives. The British again retreated and returned to town. Only one man was wounded. The conduct of the troops is universally censured.

News.

The news from Europe by last advices is uninteresting in comparison with the brilliant exploits of Garibaldi, which were waited to us by previous steamers. Garibaldi has withdrawn to his island home, which has been transformed by Victor Emmanuel from the modest cottage of a patriot into the palace of a prince. There the hero of Italian liberty in retirement awaits the Ides of March to renew the struggle with Austria and the Pope, for the liberation of the Papal States and Venetia. Should Piedmont, however, succeed in the meantime in negotiating with Austria for the purchase of Venetia, the tide of Italian revolution will be stayed; and the Papal States alone stand in the way of the friends of Italian Unity. Austria has officially denied the existence of negotiations for the cession of Venetia to Piedmont. If true, we may in two or three months again expect to see Garibaldi at the head of his revolutionary battalions, driving the last Austrian out of Italy, like Victor Emmanuel is now engaged in expelling Francis II., the last of the Bourbons from Gaeta, his last stronghold.

The news from the United States still represents South Carolina and the extreme Southern States as determined to secede. The difficulties of Mr. Buchanan have culminated by the resignation of three of the most prominent members of his Cabinet, and among the number Gen. Cass. The reason why the latter resigned, is attributed to the refusal of the President to put Fort Moultrie, at Charleston, in a state of defence. Gen. Scott has once more been summoned to Washington to lend his potent influence as a pacificator. During Jackson's administration he was sent to South Carolina to quiet the nullificationists of that day. He succeeded then; and it is certainly to be hoped that he may succeed now. There is no denying that the aspect of secession is growing more serious every day. It is not likely, however, to include under the secession banner, the border slave States. They appear to be disinclined to accept the election of Lincoln as sufficient cause for breaking up the Union. Were such a fatality as disunion to occur, it could not but be viewed as a world's calamity.

Supposed Loss of the Gunboat Forward

TOTAL LOSS OF THE BRIG CONSORT.

Arrival of the Florencia's Crew.

ANOTHER WRECK.

About 12 o'clock on Wednesday night, H. M. S. Hecate returned to Esquimalt after a fruitless search for the gunboat Forward. Capt. Robson, which vessel left here on the 16th ult., bound for Nootka Sound, for the purpose of relieving the Peruvian brigantine Florencia, then lying there disabled. From what we can gather from one of the crew of the Florencia, who came up on the Hecate, the gunboat arrived at the Sound on the 17th ult., two days after leaving here. She promptly rendered assistance to the disabled vessel, and then left for San Jose harbor, where, Capt. Robson (the commander) had learned, the American brig Consort had been wrecked, and her passengers and crew were suffering for want of food. The Forward arrived safely at San Jose and took on board eighteen persons, including the captain, first and second mates, the first mate's wife and child. The gunboat Forward returned to Friendly Cove, on the 19th, and on the 20th started for Victoria, having the brigantine in tow. They had only made about one mile from the cove, however, when she put back, Commander Robson telling the Florencia's people that something was wrong with the boiler. On the next afternoon, at 5 o'clock the gunboat, having succeeded in repairing, they started again. The brigantine was made fast to the Forward by means of a strong chain cable. They had made but a short distance, however, when the cable parted. The gunboat backed water, and having hauled in the cable, proceeded on her way. In a short time the cable again parted, and the gunboat dropped down alongside of the Florencia, and Capt. Robson told them to take in their foresail. The cable was again made fast, and Capt. Robson called out, either "If I let you go, will you be all right?" or, "Lower your mainsail." The crew are divided on this point, and none of them seem to have understood the exact nature or import of his words. The gunboat then suddenly headed towards the shore, crossed the bows of the brigantine, and, under full head of steam, with all sails set, made for Friendly Cove.

The cable again parted, and the brigantine soon lost sight of her in the darkness of the night.

The Hecate called in at Friendly Cove. Her officers questioned the natives, and they declared they had seen nothing of the Forward since her leaving with the Florencia the last time. The Hecate rescued six of the crew of the Florencia and four Kanakas belonging to the brig Consort. It is feared by many that the Forward may have sprung a leak in towing the Florencia, and gone down in trying to make Friendly Cove after parting with the brigantine; while others entertain the opinion that her machinery became disabled, and that she has gone around to the north of the Island, and will make this port under sail. There was some talk yesterday of the Hecate having found some navy blankets among the Indians; but we could not trace it to any reliable source.

Capt. Robson is spoken of by his fellow officers of the navy as an experienced commander, and one in whom great confidence was felt. The crew of the Forward numbered thirty-five, who, added to the eighteen persons she had rescued from the wreck of the Consort, makes a total of forty-three souls on board of her at the time of her disappearance. She carried one large and two small guns, and was considered perfectly seaworthy. The whole affair is, so far, shrouded in mystery, and we trust that H. M. S. Plumper, which leaves to-day in search of the missing gunboat, will return with the intelligence that she is safe, and thereby dispel the gloomy state of uncertainty at present felt.

Below will be found a statement from one of the crew of the Florencia. It cannot fail in proving interesting to our readers:

STATEMENT OF JOHN LARKIN.

We staid at Friendly Cove (Nootka Sound) after dispatching the second mate's letter to Mr. Rhodes, [published in COLONIST of the 13th Dec.—Ed. COLONIST] doing all we could to better our condition; our provisions were nearly out, and we suffered a great deal. Mr. Lankenau, the first mate, before mentioned in your journal as having left the Florencia soon after her capsizing, returned to the vessel on the 12th of December, and again took command of her. On the 17th day of December H. M. gunboat Forward came into the cove. Capt. Robson gave us provisions, and we told him that the brig Consort had been wrecked near Josef bay, some little distance to the north of Woody point—five Kanakas having come to us in a canoe a few days before and told us so. Capt. Robson told us to be of good heart, and that he would go up and relieve the brig and afterwards return to us. He did so, and got back, bringing 18 of the passengers and crew of the Consort—among whom was the mate's wife and child,—on the 19th. On the 20th we started out from the cove, in tow of the gunboat, intending to make Victoria, if possible. We had only got a mile out of the cove, however, when the crown of the boiler of the Forward fell in and she put back. After repairing her, we started the next day (the 21st) at five o'clock in the afternoon. There is a reef just outside of Nootka Sound and as it was blowing fresh at the time, there was a heavy swell on, which caused the chain by which we were being towed to part twice. We repaired it as soon as possible each time, and started again. At eight o'clock in the evening, the chain again parted, and the gunboat backed down to alongside of us, and Capt. Robson sang out "Take in your foresail." We obeyed, and while we were doing so, he crossed our bows, and having us, called out what I thought was "Lower the mainsail; others thought he said "If I let you go, will you be all right?" Without waiting for an answer, she crossed our bows, and headed, apparently in great haste, for Friendly Cove, and we lost sight of them in the darkness and gloom. We were thus again left to ourselves, and drifted about during the night at the mercy of the wave and wind. The next morning we found ourselves, as we thought, about opposite Woody Point; we repaired our trysail, which had been damaged during the night; and stood southward. We stood southward for about eight days, when we sighted the brig Emily W. Seaburn, Capt. Trask, bound for San Francisco. We hailed her and Capt. Trask came aboard in a boat, and told us to head N. E. The first mate went aboard the brig, and Capt. Trask sent back a cask of water, topsail and topgallant staysail, three sacks of flour, a box of bread, some tea, two charts, and an epitome. He told us that we were about 80 miles from Cape Flattery, and that the wind blew down the straits at that season of the year; he said he should advise us to go to San Francisco. The first mate said, Victoria being nearer, he thought there was a better chance of getting there. We then parted company, and steered N. E., and made land about 24 o'clock the next morning. Finding it was Vancouver Island, brought the ship on a wind, and got within seven miles north of Barclay Sound, where we anchored in three fathoms of water. At low water, the ship bumped heavily, and the next morning we moved into another cove close by; and got a line from the bow and another from the quarter deck. The same night she parted both lines, dragged anchor, and drove close into shore. We built a raft and the first mate, myself and two others started for the shore, with the stove and topsail. We were capsized in the surf, and some Indians pulled us out. We found the natives very kind and friendly. They saved the stove and topsail, and got the provisions ashore. They behaved nobly to us, and one of them, seeing me shivering with the intense cold, took the blanket from his shoulders and directed me to put it on. Captain Stewart, a settler residing near, came to us the next day, and told us to put the vessel up at once, and sell her for what she would bring, which was done the following day, the first mate acting as auctioneer. Stewart being the only stranger there, bid $100 for everything, and the mate knocked her down to him for that sum. The following day we went to Stewart's house and he sent down to the wreck and took away all the provisions. He asked for a bill of sale, and a quit claim on the wreck, and the first and second mates, and the steward signed one; myself and others refused to do anything of the kind. He then gave me an order for $16 66 on Norris, Cox & Co., of Victoria, and a note for $50 payable by him in six months after date, provided he realized the same from the wreck. When we refused to sign a bill of sale and quit claim, he said he would give us no assistance. We then signed clear of the vessel. That evening, the Indian agent, Mr. Bamfield, located at Barclay Sound, came over, and he said the sale was no good. He wrote up to Capt. Stamp; the Hecate came in (about three o'clock on Tuesday evening) and we went aboard of her.

I think, when the Forward left us they were trying to tow us back. She was six miles from Friendly Cove when she turned around. The Hecate went into Friendly Cove before coming to where we were; she came straight back to Esquimalt; and stopped nowhere on the way back. Three of our crew, who left for the shore with the first mate, a short time after we capsized, are held in custody by Indians, who demand a ransom.

The Florencia, when the Hecate left Barclay Sound, was lying stern on the beach. Her rudder, and a portion of her cutwater were gone. Her bottom is sound, and her position is thought to be quite as favorable for being placed afloat once more, as that of the bark Glimpse at Clover Point las Spring. At low water she is left high and dry.

THE BRIG CONSORT

noticed above as having been wrecked in San Jose harbor, at the northern extremity of Vancouver Island, was from Honolulu, and bound for Meiggs & Co.'s mills to load with lumber. She was dismantled during a gale about the 15th of October, and jury masts were rigged, and she made the entrance of the straits, when she was driven off by a severe gale, and finally ran into San Jose harbor, where she anchored. A few days afterwards she dragged her anchors, and went ashore, where she became a total wreck. Her passengers and crew numbering 22 persons—9 Kanakas, and 13 white persons—reached the shore safely, and were taken off by the Forward on the 18th ult. Eighteen of their passengers and crew were on board the Forward, when she disappeared. The remaining four Kanakas were on board the Florencia, and arrived on the Hecate on Wednesday night.

ANOTHER WRECK.

Capt. King, who arrived yesterday morning from the vicinity of Cape Flattery, reports seeing the wreck of a small vessel on the beach about three miles beyond the spot where the John Marshall is sunk. What description of vessel she was he could not make out, as the surf was breaking over her, making it dangerous for his party to approach.

THE WRECK OF THE JOHN MARSHALL.

Captain King also informs us that during his search for wreckers, he came across the wreck of the ship John Marshall in a rock-bound cove about three miles below San Juan. The hull is plainly visible at low water, and the masts and rigging are high and dry on the beach.

Ur.—The schooners Eclipse and Woodpecker were up for this port; and the bark Mallory for Puget Sound, on the 4th instant.

Keating's Cough Lozenges

A SAFE AND CERTAIN REMEDY FOR Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, and other Affections of the Throat and Chest. In the most delicate Consumption, Asthma, and Winter Cough they are unrivalled. Being free from every hurtful ingredient, they may be taken by the most delicate female or the youngest child; while the public speaker and the professional singer will find them invaluable in allaying the hoarseness and irritation incidental to vocal exertion, and also a powerful auxiliary in the production of melodious enunciation.

Prepared and sold in Boxes and Tins, of various sizes, by Thomas Keating, Chemist, &c., No. 79, St. Paul's Church Yard, London. Sold retail by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Vendors in the world.

N. B.—To prevent spurious imitations, please to observe the words "Keating's Cough Lozenges" are engraved on the Government Stamp of each Box without which none are genuine.

CURE OF ASTHMA OF SEVERAL YEARS' STANDING.

THE WORLD'S FRIEND!

Holloway's Ointment.

A Cure for Piles and Fistulas.

Inflammation of sensitive parts, piles, fistulas, and such like painful diseases may be presently relieved, and ultimately cured, by the proper and diligent use of this cooling and healing Ointment, whose action should, in such cases, be assisted by judicious doses of Pills, as many of us have elapsed the anxious patient will experience a wonderful degree of ease from this treatment. They are equally suitable to both sexes, and all ages.

Coughs, Colds, and Asthma.

These complaints of the chest come with alarming frequency. The Ointment should assiduously be rubbed at least twice a day on the chest and between the shoulders, when the violence of all symptoms will gradually give way, the breathing become longer, and the oppression less. No medicines are more efficient in chest complaints, none can be used with equal safety and certainty. Both Pills and Ointment are accompanied by very clear and simple directions for using them.

A Man who refused to have his Leg off.

"From the Kilrush Advertiser, June 2nd, 1860."

BENJAMIN COX, Esquire, Magistrate, said in the Board Room at Kilrush, that he knew a man who had been in the Infantry and was actually turned out as incurable, on his way home to Kilrush, he purchased at Ennis, Holloway's Pills and Ointment, for, as he said, it could not be worse with him. This man, said Mr. Cox, became by their use as sound and as healthy as any man in the room. These celebrated

Pills and Ointment will cure any wound, sore, or ulcer, however long standing, if properly used according to the printed directions.

Gout and Rheumatism.

The essence of these diseases lie in the blood, which has, floating through each vessel, the pain-diving poison, which irritates and inflames every tissue it comes in contact with, and produces the hot, swollen, elastic enlargement about the joints so characteristic of gouty diseases. The philosophy of cure consists in overcoming this depravity in the blood, which is rapidly purified by the use of the Pills. The Ointment, when rubbed upon the skin, penetrates the system through the pores, acts in unison with the Pills, and soon effects a cure.

Dropsy, Swollen Legs or Ankles.

The various kinds of dropsy, whether windy or watery, arise from some obstruction to the free circulation through the blood vessels or lymphatics, or depend on the inflamed state of some secreting surface.

Holloway's remedies, of which the efficacy cannot be exaggerated, act directly upon the blood, the absorbents and secretions, with a power that no dropsy however inveterate, can long resist. They regulate the proper flow of blood to every organ, and purify it likewise,—they filter out everything that is morbid or injurious,—they thoroughly regenerate every function, yet potent as they are for good, they are powerless for evil. They do not contain mercury or any noxious substances. They act safely and certainly.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, and Old Ulcers.

This invaluable Ointment was never known to fail in the cure of any wound, sore, or ulcer, and as can be proved by innumerable testimonials from persons who had been discharged from Hospitals as incurable, and yet by perseverance they have been made as sound as they were the day they were born, by this incomparable Ointment. For pimples, blotches, scald heads, and scorbutic humours, it is equally
